I think I wrote to you since my illness which happened from the first to the 29th June, when I cured it, by leaving the town and going up into the mountains, perhaps it may be interesting for you to know that on the 21st June I walked over snow, on the 22nd I had a chase after one of the mountain deer ("Ibex"-Bewick) which deer however, from mismanagement, I did not take. By the by talking of animals, reminds me that I have a favor to ask, that is that you would send me out by the first vessel coming three books viz Bewicks quadrupeds, and 2 Vols Bewicks British Birds. — This you may think a frivolous request but when I tell you that there are in this country several birds not mentioned in any nat'l Hist'y and not even known in Europe I hope I may stand excused. Bonham has a collection of birds skins some of which birds I shot, he intends to get the skins stuffed. I should like much that my Mother should see them. —

Business — I have hitherto written nothing upon this subject nor did I intend to write upon it when I began this letter having thought it better to leave it to Charles, but upon consideration I think, perhaps I have gained some valuable information whilst remaining here, which he wants. About remitting I shall say nothing seeing that Charles must know most about our affairs in England: In answer to this question which I have put to him more than once as to "whether you would be seriously inconvenienced by not having funds to meet our bills when due" he answered "not seriously"; how far this is the case I cannot judge. Charles left this place for Teheran June 13th. Since he arrived there I have had several letters from him; he has sold about T2000 worth of goods and has got in T1400 of money which sum he has paid to Sir John Campbell[43] for a bill on England. I have also paid to a merchand here on Sir Jno C's acct the sum of T1200, and have advised Sir J. C. of this payment, therefore I hope that we shall have at least Tom 2600 or £1300 ready to remit by the first tartar. Charles tells me that he is endeavouring to get bills on Engld from Sir Jno Campbell, if he does this it will be advantageous for us. Since this investment arrived here we have sold pretty well and at fair prices, and have now more than T3,000 due in Tabreez but as this sum is all owed to us by Princes and Nobles I am not able to get it, Charles soon would, if he came here. There are many (alas too many) things in this investment which are not at all suited to this market, Schwyds invoice for instance, will hardly realize prime cost, and expenses, Edward's is much the same perhaps worse; all these goods in Early & Sons invoice (except the blankets which are good) are scarcely worth any thing; Charles appears to me to have taken any goods he could lay his hands on without any regard as to whether these were suited to the Persian taste or
